THE WEEKLY STALLION

I hope everyone enjoyed their Spring Break and was able to enjoy the plans you made for your time away. Some of us planned our time by the day, and some of us just enjoyed not being on a schedule and living in the moment. God always knows what he is doing and the plans that he has for each and every one of us each day. This does not mean God keeps all dangers from us and it does not mean the Christians do not go through challenges and troubles of life. The desert and mountains do not disappear. They are still there and still need to be crossed. The thought that we are watched over and kept from harm is comforting. There is nothing that will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord.
